Thanks again for your support!

First off I'd like to thank you all for purchasing this small guide on how to make money with your CPA offers. At the bottom of this eBook you will find a small bonus that will allow you to earn $25 and a free eBook of mine of your choice. Anyways let's begin.

If you live in NYC or any popular city with a lot of people, let me just tell you now, you have hit a gold mine.

How I came across this?

Well long story short at my college Penn State University, while taking my final exams, I realized how everyone was getting on their laptops the first five minutes before class, before our professor came in. He would usually have our papers at our seats for the whole day. As you probably all know now what I'm going to get at now.

Now that you know how I came across this method you will find this 'offline marketing' easier then you thought it was. If you do not go to college, there is many ways around this.

Examples:

Grocery Store

Parks

High Schools

Middle Schools

Carnivals

Fairs

City's

The list is endless really, just any place with traffic.

If you do not attend college yourself here is a way around it. I am sure everyone knows someone who attends college and if you tell them you will pay them even $50 to lay down some sheets of paper for a week at their next classes, they will do it. You will be laying down sheets of paper to win something nice. I did an Apple Mac Book Pro for this and it worked out quite well for me, and I'm sure it can for you too.

Examples of other stuff you can use:

Apple iPhone 5

iPod

iPad

Money, yes money we all know how women get when they get a chance to get money right?

Laptops

Desktops

Etc

Scouting:

To start off with, you will obviously need to choose a college or place with incoming traffic near you. As with any marketing project, the larger the traffic, the better, and more money you will be making. My college has about 25,000 current students enrolled so just think about the massive money making possibility.

By having a look around and knowing where to expect people to be going and at what times, it will be easy for you to choose a time to enter the buildings and put your CPA offer on each of the seats or targeted areas.

Joining a CPA network:

If you are not already part of a CPA network, you will need to join one in order to access different offers and get paid for them. There is thousands of CPA networks out there to choose from. Personally, I mainly use CPALead. They all have a large selection of offers and are also reliable. It doesn't matter what network you join as long as they have some decent offers and pay you a decent amount that you are happy with.

Tips:

Don't use an item that the targeted traffic is not interested in. For example, if you are doing college students, don't do a kids toy. What college student would want a kid's toy or any type of toy? None of them. Do something the traffic would want to have and not something that they will look at and say 'fuck that who wants that shit.'

Electronics work great, college students are always wanting a new iPhone, laptop, or iPod. People will only take the effort to enter these details if they believe they have a chance to win something that is valuable to them.

When you get a CPA offer, try and stay away from the ones that take long to complete. You want ones that are short and to the point. Who is going to want to do a 10 minute survey for a ‘chance’ to win a prize? No one would want to do that.

It is often best to choose a CPA offer that pays a bit lower but also requires a lot less effort to complete.

Try to get offers from the $1-$5 range for your best results.

Creating your advertisement:

Once you find a targeted place with traffic, you’re going to want to start setting your papers around the place. Here is a template on what your paper should look like that you’re going to hand out.

Delivering your advertisement:

It is important not to make different offers every day of the week and put them in the same rooms. Eventually, people will get sick of doing them and won't bother anymore.

Place one advertisement on each seat/desk of the chosen room. If you can access a room with computers, you will get even higher conversion rates since everyone in that room will be on a computer and will be more inclined to complete your offer.

Happy Monetizing, I wish you all the same luck as I had with this method!

Feel free to Private Message me on Hackforums if you have any questions.

Extra Bonus:

If you leave a good vouch on my sales thread(s) I may give you another one of my ebooks and possibly a chance to win $25. This is my personal return to my customers. It will be based on your vouch compared to other peoples as well.

It has to be a GOOD vouch though.
