- 1. To do this method you should have a good, positive feedback over like 15. To do this you can just buy some random crap or just buy an account with good feedback. After you do this I recommend changing the phone number on your eBay account. If you buy an account do perform the method right away, change the info, so you aren't sending random packages to the previous owner.
- 2. When you did step 1, go find what you want. There's millions of listings on eBay. Make sure you're looking in the buy it now section. Price doesn't matter too much if you're using a drop house, but if you're not, I wouldn't exceed $1,000 on each item, but you can if you want. When you found search the item you want, make sure you look at all of them. Some will have 1,000s of positive feedback, you don't want that. Someone under like 50 is good, but you can go up to like 150. I highly recommend staying at a low feedback.
- 3. This is how you check if you're product is good.

Requirements:

- 1. The seller has under 100 feedback
- 2. When you click buy it now, the page looks like this:

You are agreeing to a contract --You will enter into a legally binding contract to purchase the item from the seller. You are responsible for reading the full item listing, including the seller's instructions and accepted payment methods. Seller assumes all responsibility for listing this item.

and not like this:

Now click "Commit to Buy" and on the next page don't click anything. If it says that you bought it and congratulations at the top and all that stuff, hover over My eBay, then click purchase history.

On the right to all the info, click "More Actions" and click "Mark as payment sent". After that you're going to want to click "More Actions", again, then click "Contact Seller". As the topic select "Other".

4. Okay so make the topic "Other" and the question say this, "Hey, I paid, but Paypal is holding the payment until I can confirm tracking for this item, thanks:)"

Okay, so not every seller will say yes, but sometimes you got to manipulate them a little bit. So when they say that they don't see the payment say this "I pay as a guest with my credit card, that's how I always pay, check my feedback, it's good, I always pay on time:)"

They could ask for proof, just say "Check my feedback, I always pay like this". This is really where the feedback is going to help you. Alot of these people you really have to talk them into doing it.

Keep in mind that these people have your address and if you do this with a pair of $2,000 Galaxy Foamspites they can go to your house. Some people on eBay know about the deep web, and stuff like that.

5. Unless you created your account on a VPN, it's kind of pointless, it's all logged. Anyways, after you receive your item just ignore the seller. It's there fault for sending you out an iPad for free. If you need help with this I will offer support over SE'ed PM system or Skype. Just PM me for those. Good luck!
